

Table of contents

Preface and acknowledgments — v

List of contributors — ix

Łukasz Jędrzejowski and Ulrike Demske

- 1 Infinitival patterns and their diachronic dynamics: Questions and challenges — 1

I Acl verbs and restructuring effects

Thomas Grano

- 2 Restructuring at the syntax-semantics interface — 31

Isabela Nedelcu and Irina Paraschiv

- 3 The Romanian infinitive selected by perception and cognitive verbs — 55

Jerneja Kavčič

- 4 A diachronic perspective on the semantics of Acl clauses in Greek — 81

II Infinitive structures versus other non-finite and finite patterns

Frauke D'hoedt and Hubert Cuyckens

- 5 Finite, infinitival and verbless complementation: The case of believe, suppose and find — 115

Virginia Hill

- 6 Early Modern Romanian infinitives: Origin and replacement — 147

Augustin Speyer

- 7 Semantic factors for the status of control infinitives in the history of German — 169

Éva Dékány

- 8 Anti-agreeing infinitives in Old Hungarian — 193

Rosemarie Lühr

9 The emergence of expressions for purpose relations in older Indo-European languages — 223

Björn Wiemer

10 Main clause infinitival predicates and their equivalents in Slavic: Why they are not instances of insubordination — 265

Language index — 339

Subject index — 341